

Stu Peace

CONSULTANT & TRAINER

ABOUT STU

Stu brings with him decades of experience in design, marketing and media production. Having worked in the printing industry in the early 1990s he experienced and lived the digital changes that have affected the marketing, and most, industries.

A background that includes stints at leading Brisbane advertising agencies in both creative and studio management roles he eventually moved into a more strategic brand focus working inside some of Brisbane's largest corporate marketing teams. A move back into a more creative focussed role with his own business kept him busy working with brands and organisations from across a plethora of sectors.

Now an Account Manager with The Creative Collective, Stu helps clients solve marketing and business problems managing projects and accounts with precision and effectiveness. Always on budget and on time.
